BAKER PUBLISHING GROUP CELEBRATES 75TH ANNIVERSARY 1939–2014

BUILDING A BOOK BUSINESS FROM THE GROUND UP

At age 28, with help from his in-laws, Herman Baker opened his bookstore at 1019 Wealthy Street in Grand Rapids. The year was 1939—the Great Depression was nearing its end and German troops invaded Poland in the opening salvos of World War II. Herman paid just $18 a month to rent the bookstore space, which he filled with less than five hundred used books collected over the years and displayed on homemade shelves. His equipment consisted of two used desks and a typewriter purchased at the Salvation Army.

The demand for used religious books soon exceeded expectations. Herman expanded his business into several ground-floor rooms and then into the basement. Continued growth meant purchasing adjoining buildings and converting upstairs apartments into storage and display rooms.

Just a year after opening the store, Herman Baker took his first steps into publishing books. In 1940 Baker Book House released More Than Conquerors: An Interpretation of the Book of Revelation by Dr. William Hendriksen, professor of New Testament exegetical theology at Calvin Seminary, located just a short distance from the store.

More Than Conquerors proved to be just the sort of title Baker loved to publish: conservative, scholarly, biblical, timeless. The book is still in print and continues to draw reviews and comments nearly seventy-five years after its original publication.

Herman Baker purchased the Wealthy Street building in 1942, gradually growing the business through the war years. There were times, however, when he had to wait for money to come in before buying postage stamps to send out more catalogs. The war years saw the first new and used fiction sold at the store, in part to draw in the many women who stayed home while the men went off to war.

Baker knew how to sell books. As the tenth anniversary of the business approached, he and his staff came up with the novel idea of reissuing the popular Barnes' Notes, a commentary series that had already been a bestseller for over a century. It had been last reissued in 1852. But reissuing the twenty volumes would cost a prohibitive $30,000 for 2,000 printed and bound sets. Herman didn't have that kind of capital, but he did have a salesman's instincts. Baker Book House issued them on the Volume-A-Month Plan at $3 each beginning in early 1949, a plan "that has proved very popular with purchasers of modest means," according to the tenth anniversary catalog. More than 20,000 volumes were ordered in just five months.

"We love to sell a good book. There is no better business to be in. In books we have the richest treasures on earth, the output of the best minds of the ages."

—Herman Baker

By 1949, Baker Book House was among the largest distributors of new and used religious books in the United States and abroad. Orders came from as close as the next block to as far away as South Africa, Korea, and Hungary.

MOVING CONFIDENTLY INTO THE FUTURE

» Our New Bookstore Building, 2012

Baker Publishing Group, now in its third generation of Baker family leadership, is preparing for the future. In September 2012, Dwight Baker created a governing board made up of Dwight and Dan Baker and six non-family members. These thoughtful men and women are tasked with guiding the organization into the fourth generation and beyond. And while Dwight Baker leads Baker Book House Company, the company is owned jointly by four

Baker Publishing Group looks to the future even as it celebrates the past seventy-five years. The company’s goal remains the same, reflecting the words of Herman Baker: “We love to sell a good book. There is no better business to be in.”
